

Statesville Tree Board

Statesville's lucky to have a citizens group interested in its trees. The Statesville Tree Board helps keep track of which trees do well and where there are problems. Believe it or not, it takes people from all parts of an area to keep track of the trees, and tree growing conditions and what's best for everyone, too.

There's the Book of Trees that records honorariums sent in, and a Champion Tree list. Special projects include Arbor Day/Earth Day and the Tree City USA designation.

Pruning is a problem for many, but you'll find help online, too, where there are many good guides to pruning.

If you have some suggestions about trees, please don't hesitate to submit them, on the home page of iredellwatch.org, click submit.
